

OUR DEAD.

MOORE.—In Washington Co., Pa. Samuel, son of Brother William and Sister Belle Moore, aged 3 years and 28 days. Dear little Samuel your stay with us here was short, but Jesus had need of you in that brighter and better world, where sickness and sorrow never comes. Dear brother and sister, when mourning for your little darling, think how happy he is now.

"Safe in the arms of Jesus.
Safe on his gentle breast."

RICE.—Died in the George's Creek congregation, Sept. 28, 1887, Brother Mose Rice, of consumption. He was afflicted for several years and was about 50 years old. He leaves a wife to mourn his loss which we believe is his eternal gain. Funeral services by J. D. GANS.

DEAR READERS OF THE EVANGELIST.—A few days ago I received a note from my Bro., J. C. Yoder, of Huntingdon, Pa., stating that their son Jesse, about 18 years of age, was hurt by the cars after which he lived only one hour.

O how sad. All who are accustomed to looking for an answer to their prayers should not fail to offer up a special prayer to God asking Him to strengthen these sorrow stricken parents who have thus in a moment, without warning, lost their dear son, that they may be enabled to bear their loss with Christian fortitude.

Just think dear brethren, if it were one of our own dear children—how sad and heart-broken and comfortless we would feel.

Let us be united in prayers, asking God to comfort this bereaved family.

J. B. YODER.

Canada, O.

DEAR EDITOR AND LITTLE FRIENDS.—We write this time in memory of our little friends. This fall there has been a kind of diphtheria raging west of us, near and in New Lebanon. Several children died with it, among them were two of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Martin's children. We do not know their names, but we remember them and are sorry they were called away so young. We remember seeing them when Mr. Martin yet preached at the Bear Creek church. Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rauch's two youngest girls died with the same disease. We were well acquainted with them. Rachel the older of the two that died was our classmate in Sunday School. Her sister Ivy was quite young, about five years old. They were both such nice little girls. They were both so very kind to everybody. We like them very much. Rachel the one with whom I am most acquainted always spoke so kindly of every one, and had such a nice character. We know their parents miss them very much. We are very sorry they were called away so soon, but their good behavior was enough to learn all of us little boys and girls that we must try to live obediently, if we wish a home in heaven after we die. We do hope the rest of their family will get well again.

We will miss all of our little friends that have died, but as they were all such good and nice children we know they went to the home above. We can only hope that we will live so good that when we die we can go to that blessed home too.

Your little friends,

MOLLIE E. KIMMEL.

PEARL G. RINEHART.

Dayton, O., Oct. 11, 1887.

STEWART.—It becomes our sad duty to chronicle the death of our esteemed brother, Allen T. Stewart, who departed from this life Oct. 13, 1887, aged 83 years, 4 months and 17 days. He will be missed. He was a kind husband, good neighbor and a consistent and faithful member of the Brethren church. He died in the triumphs of a living faith. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved widow. May God sustain her in her sad bereavement.

His funeral occasion, by his own request, was improved by the writer from Prov. 16: 31, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and sympathizing friends. Peace to his ashes.

A. M. RIDENOUR.

often need some safe cathartic and tonic to avert approaching sickness, or to relieve colic, headache, sick stomach, indigestion, dysentery and the complaints incident to childhood. Let the children take Simmons Liver Regulator and keep well. It is purely vegetable, not unpleasant to the taste and safe to take alone or in connection with other medicine.

Temperance Items.

Beer-brewing increases in this country amazingly.

The Cumberland Presbyterian, of Nashville, Tennessee, says, "Tennessee spends fifteen times as much money for bad whiskey as for good schools."

The meeting of the National Committee of the Prohibition party, originally called for Nov. 16th and 18th in Chicago, is postponed to Nov. 30th and Dec. 1st.

Kansas, a Prohibition State, has 100,000 more people than Texas, but Texas has three times as many convicts. The former has one penitentiary; the latter has two, with over 3,000 inmates.

It is said that when the Queen of Madagascar shut up the saloons in her kingdom, and the ex-saloon-keepers asked for compensation, she replied: "Compensate those you have wronged, and I will pay the balance."

It is safe to estimate the receipts of the New York saloons at $30,000,000 a year, one-half of which, at least, comes from the 150,000 men who are known as "laboring men." The destruction of the liquor saloons alone would cure four-fifths of the poverty in the community.—Howard Crosby.

The vote on the Texas prohibitory amendment stands in round numbers thus: For the amendment, 172,000; against 268,000. Majority against 96,000. The intensity of the struggle can be measured by the size of the total vote. The aggregate vote on president in 1884 was 325,317—the highest ever reached. But the total vote on the amendment was 440,000—115,000 in excess of that for president.

A Novel Bet.

While I am not a betting man, said F. T. Cheney, of the firm of F. G. Cheney & Co., I considered it my religious duty to make that fellow a bet, you see he was about dead, and I guess he would die before spring, if I had not got him on the bet. You know some men had rather lose their life than lose a hundred, well he was one of that kind, and we both came near being out, but I saved my hundred and it only cost him ten dollars. How's that? He sent for me one day and said the doctors had all given him up to die, with the catarrh. I told him that I would bet him $100 that Hall's Catarrh Cure would cure him or I would give him $100 if it failed. He took the latter proposition. This was three months ago; you see how he looks now don't you, as well as any one and a dandy. American, Toledo, O.

For Rent a Term of Years.

A 570 acre farm, situated in the renowned James River Valley, Fluvanna Co., Va., 66 miles above the capital Richmond, and 70 miles more or less below the business city Lynchburg. It is near and in full view of the Richmond and Alleghany R. R. A beautiful and healthy location, conveniently situated to mills, stores, churches, schools, depot, P. O., &c. In winter the thermometer is rarely ever lower than 10 degrees above zero, and not often and long at a time as low as that. Its usual range is in the thirties and upwards. This farm contains 40 acres James River, broad low grounds; 40 in creek flats; 220 in other arable land; 270 in an excellent variety of timber. The land easily improved, and well adapted to the successful growth of all grasses, wheat, corn, oats, tobacco, various vegetables and fruits. Industrious, reliable, good farmers are invited to correspond with me for particulars, enclosing stamps for all replies. This farm may be rented by one or more parties, sufficient to cultivate it properly. Best references required. Address, Miss Julia A. Wood, Brems Bluff, Fluvanna Co., Va.

Some Strange Antipathies.

It seems absolutely incredible that Peter the Great, the father of the Russian navy, should shudder at the sight of water, whether running or still, yet so it was, especially when alone. His palace gardens, beautiful as they were, he never entered, because the river Mosera flowed through them. His coachman had orders to avoid all roads which led past streams, and if compelled to cross a brook or bridge, the great emperor would sit with closed windows, in a cold perspiration. Another monarch, James I., the English Solomon, as he liked to be called, had many antipathies, chiefly tobacco, ling, and pork. He never overcame his inability to look with composure at a drawn sword; and it is said that on one occasion, when giving the accolade, the king turned his face aside, nearly wounding the new-made knight. Henry III. of France, had so great a dislike to cats that he fainted at the sight of one. We suppose that in this case the cat had to waive its proverbial prerogative and could not look at a king. This will seem as absurd as extraordinary to lady lovers of that much-petted animal, but what are we to say of the Countess of Lamballe, of unhappy history, to whom a violet was a thing of horror? Even this is not without precedent; for it is on record that Vincent the painter was seized with vertigo and swooned at the smell of roses. Scaliger states that one of his relations was made ill at the sight of a lily; and he himself would turn pale at the sight of water-cress, and could never drink milk.

Charles Kingsley, naturalist as he was to the core, had a great horror of spiders; and in "Glaucus," after saying that every one seems to have his antipathic animal, continues:—"I know one [himself] bred from his childhood to zoology by land and sea, and bold in asserting and honest in feeling that all without exception is beautiful, who yet cannot, after handling and petting and examining, all day long, every uncouth and venomous beast, avoid a paroxysm of horror at the sight of the common house-spider."

The writer shares this dislike to a painful extent; in this case it is inherited from his grandfather. The genial author of the "Turkish Spy" says that he would far prefer sword in hand to face a lion in his desert lair, than have a spider crawl over him in the dark. The cat, as we have previously mentioned, has repeatedly been an object of aversion. The Duke of Shomberg, though a redoubtable soldier, would not sit in the same room with a cat. A courtier of the Emperor Ferdinand carried this dislike so far as to bleed at the nose on hearing a cat mew. Lord Lauderdale, on the other hand, declared that the mewling of the cat was to him sweeter than any music, while he had the greatest dislike to the lute and the bagpipe. In this latter aversion he was by no means singular. Dogs, too, have come in for their share of dislike. De Musset cordially detested them.

We have read somewhere of a man who, if he saw a crayfish, became perfectly limp and helpless, while the perspiration streamed from his face. The writer's brother has so strong a dislike to beet root, that a dish of it placed near him will not only destroy all appetite, but cause him to turn pale and feel faint.—Cassell's.

The death of the sultan of Morocco on the 7th inst., it is reported, may possibly lead to serious complications between France and Spain. Both are seeking to get possession of this part of northern Africa. The sultan will be succeeded by his son, aged sixteen, who has appointed his uncle grand-vizier. A ship canal is to be built between Manchester and Liverpool. The directors report that the contract for the work has been allotted to Mr. T. Walker, for 75 millions pounds.

Printer Ink Is King.

There is a host of men who boast Of powder, cotton, steam; But every hour the mighty power Of printer's ink is seen.

It moves the world as easily As does some mighty thing, And men proclaim in despots' ears That printer's ink is king.

The man of gold, of wealth untold, Printer's ink may scorn, Or knit his brow, nor deign to bow To one so lowly born; But printer's ink has built its throne Where minds their tributes bring, And God's most gifted intellects Shout "Printer's ink is king!"

King of the world of thought refined, No object slave it claims; Where superstition's victims pine, It bursts their servile chains. In every clime, in coming years, Will men proud anthems sing, And round the world the echoes float, That printer's ink is king! —Southern Publisher and Printer.
